Asiantation is not Orientation

Why is it called Asiantation, instead of Orientation? The thought for the name “Asiantation” came quite by accident, but the title Asiantation wasn’t intended merely as a catchy name. The following poem explains it best.

ASIAN
is not Oriental.
head bowed, submissive, industrious model minority
hard working, studious quite

ASIAN is not being Oriental
Lotus blossom, exotic passion flower inscrutable.

ASIAN
is no talking Oriental
ahh so, ching chong chinaman
no tickee, no washee

ORIENTAL
is slanty eyes, glasses, and buck teeth
Charlie Chan, Tokyo Rose, Madam Butterfly.
it’s “a half hour after eating Chinese food you’re hungry again”
it’s houseboys, gardeners, and laundrymen
Oriental is a fad: yin-yang, kung fu
“say one of them funny words for me”
Oriental is downcast eyes, china doll
"they all look alike"
Oriental is sneaky
Oriental is a white man’s word.

WE ARE NOT Oriental.
We have learned the word all our lives we have learned to be Oriental we have learned to live it, speak it, play the role.
The time has come to look at who gave the name.

ORIENTAL is jap, flip, chink, gook
it’s “you people could teach them niggers and Mexicans a thing or two you’re good people
none of that hollerin’ and protesting”

- Anonymous

As the poem states, "Asian is not oriental." The term "oriental" has been imposed upon Asians to emphasize the differences in many cases, the inferiority of Asian people. The term "Asian American" or "Asian Pacific American" however, is a term of empowerment, of Asians assuming control of the way they are viewed. They key part of "Asian American" or "Asian Pacific American" is AMERICAN. It embraces the fact that we are not foreigners.

What is Asiantation?

Asiantation is a student run orientation unlike other university-run orientation programs. It also appears to be the first orientation of its kind in the U.S. that is directed specifically toward Asian American students. The first Asiantation program took place 12 years ago and came about because of the initiative and diligence of the Asian American leaders and the cooperation of the Illini Union Board and the Office of the Dean of Students.

The program consists of this resource handbook and a "welcoming event" featuring speakers, entertainment from the campus community and off-campus Asian American community. Each year Asiantation enjoys increasingly widespread support from student organizations and many off campus organizations and individuals who contribute in various ways to the success of the event.
August 2005

Welcome to our annual publication of resources for the Asian American community at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Asian Americans make up nearly 13% of our student body, and with this year's largest incoming class of students ever, this year will also mark one of the largest Asian American communities in the Midwest. With the brand new Asian American Cultural Center, there are more resources than ever before for our community, and we are encourage you take advantage of them.

The Asian American Cultural Center would not be possible without programs such as Asiantation to address the needs of the Asian American community. Now in its 12th year, Asiantation has introduced new students to specific resources available to the Asian American community and has evolved over the years to become much more than an orientation for first year students. Whether you are a first year student wanting to learn about the Asian American community, a returning student who wants to get more involved, or a faculty or staff member looking for Asian American resources on campus, this booklet is the right place to begin.

To find out more about the programs and services of the Asian American Cultural Center, please refer to the Campus Resource section of this booklet. If there are any other resources that are not yet available, we encourage any feedback or suggestions. Since this is the first year of operation, we are continuing to create more resources for you. We hope to see you at the Asian American Cultural Center!

Sincerely,

David W. Chih

August 2005

It is my honor to be given this opportunity to welcome all the incoming freshmen at such an exciting time. This year our very first Asian American Cultural Center will open after student's years of relentless struggle. But before we celebrate this great event, we must not forget what we have now - such as Asian American Studies Program - were not handed down to us but are actually products of a few students who cared to stand up. Only because there was a group of students who cared about Asian American issues was the opening of the cultural center possible.

Although to some students opening of a cultural center may seem like a small accomplishment and some may even say, "well…it does not really affect me," we must understand that it is a big deal and it does indeed affect us. It is easy to care about your grades and your resume than to care about issues that seem unrelated to us. However, because of few students who were passionate to fight for Asian American representation on campus we have privileges that we enjoy now. We must never take granted for their selfless and persistent effort.

For that reason, I want to encourage all the incoming freshmen to get involved and be active in whatever you feel passionate about. It may be environmental issues or world poverty issues. Fight for what you believe in.

College is a rare time when you can explore your interest and passion without facing any burden of "the real world." So work hard and have fun!!!

For over 15 years students have made continuous demands to the administration to create a cultural center for Asian Americans. This Fall, their demands are being met as the new Asian American Cultural Center opens its doors for the first time.

The newly constructed Asian American Cultural Center is located at 1210 W. Nevada St. in Urbana. It is connected to and shares a conference room with the existing Asian American Studies Building and it is in close proximity to the other cultural centers and ethnic studies programs.

The Asian American Cultural Center is dedicated to fostering appreciation and understanding of Asian American experiences. It is a unit within the Office of the Dean of Students of the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and supports the missions of Student Affairs as well as the University. In support of those missions, the Center:

1) Promotes pan-Asian American identity and unity through educational, social, and cultural programs provided to students and members of the University and Champaign-Urbana communities;

2) Provides resources for Asian American students to explore their rich and diverse heritages and to empower them to be active and responsible participants and leaders within our increasingly pluralistic, diverse, and complex global society by assisting in their personal, intellectual, political, social, and academic development;

3) Increases awareness of the experiences of Asians in the United States and Asian American issues at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, with an attempt to incorporate these experiences and values into the cultural mosaic of this institution by improving intergroup relationships and providing opportunities for cross-cultural communication and collaboration;

4) Builds and contributes to a diverse and welcoming community within the university and creates opportunities for outreach to the surrounding community, especially Asian American alumni, faculty and staff, and individuals within the community who have an interest in issues relevant to Asian American experiences;

5) Serves as a liaison for the university to communicate and dialogue about issues and assist with the implementation of initiatives and programs relevant to Asian Americans.
With close to 7000 square feet, this two-story building is designed to meet the needs of students and the campus community. The entire facility has wireless accessibility and a basement that has storage for student organizations. The facilities feature:

Kitchen: Students can utilize the kitchen to host cooking lessons and prepare for events involving food.

Lounge with Study Area: A comfortable area for students to hang out and relax. This space can be reserved for small programs like guest speakers, book discussions, film showings, or game nights.

Conference Room: Shared with Asian American Studies Program, this room is equipped for professional presentations, large meetings and small receptions.

Activities Office: Equipped with computers, this space is for students to gather and meet to work on projects and programs.

Resource Room: A wide variety of Asian American fiction and nonfiction books, magazines, music and videos are available here. Also available here are information and resources from other campus units. The space can be reserved for small meetings.

Asian American Awareness Month

Every March, UIUC celebrates Asian American Awareness Month, so visit our website in February for this year’s programs. Awareness Month includes lectures, performances, workshops, and various cultural events. We encourage students to get involved with the planning committee, so contact the Cultural Center if you are interested in getting involved. The theme for the 2005 Asian American Awareness Month was “Breaking New Ground,” commemorating the ground breaking of the new Asian American Cultural Center. In the past, some of the activities coordinated for the celebration included:

Food for Thought, Asian American Cultural Center
A series of educational workshop presented by Student Affairs units.

Visibility, Asian Pacific American Coalition
A showcase of performances by Asian American performers.

India Night, Indian Student Association
A fusion of traditional and mainstream culture of various forms including dance groups, singing groups, skits, MCs, fashion shows and a short movie.

Kamayan Night, Philippine Student Association
Kamayan means “eat with your hands” in Tagalog. Free Filipino dinner was served and followed by dancing.

Ambience Fashion Show, Philippine Student Association
Showcasing a variety of PSA members’ talents, from musical and vocal performances to dancing.

Family Day, Vietnamese Student Association
Showcasing the Vietnamese culture and heritage through performances and food.

Taste of Asia, Asian American Association
Showcasing the culture of distinct ethnic groups through the presentation of food.
The efforts of Asian Americans both locally and nationally have been significant in developing an environment of multiculturalism and visibility for minorities. Students and academics alike have been working to establish scholarly works and cultural resources for their communities in order to raise awareness on issues of concern while providing outlets to exert and preserve our ethnic identities. Yet as we celebrate Asian American awareness, the progress we have made in our campuses and communities could not have been accomplished without the vision and determination of those who have struggled to be heard.

Asian Americans have been fighting for social justice and equality by challenging the status quo in the communities and institutions. The development of Asian American programs over the years is evidence of student, staff, faculty, and administration led efforts for a more multicultural discourse. Whether it was accomplished through protest or negotiations, there have been breakthroughs in new perspectives, reexamining previous areas as well as raising concern to areas that were once marginalized. And while the academics have become more diverse, so has the faculty as more minorities are being hired in the field of Asian American Studies. The emergence of the program has broken ground not only in academia but in the community also as Asian Americans have helped to change the dynamics of our society and institutions.

While progress has been made nationally, the development of the Asian American Studies Program here at U of I is symbolic of how we have broken ground locally. Battling model minority myths and stereotypes of complicity, the persistence of Asian Americans here on campus has enabled us to have an academic program and cultural center. Their hard work in showing our diverse ethnic backgrounds and demonstrating the need for a building has helped to improve our quality of life on campus. The persistence of active Asian Americans has given us the opportunity to take courses that relate to us while in addition to having access to a center that address the needs of our community.

The advancements we have made both nationally and locally show that passivity and silence is not something that is endemic to Asian Americans. We have been helping to break ground in creating academic, cultural, social, and political channels for which we are able to express ourselves. The progress of Asian Americans here on campus is a testament to the development of not only our local community, but as a whole as well. The establishment of the Asian American Studies Program and Cultural Center is evidence of the groundbreaking measures Asian Americans have taken to increase our presence and dispel myths of being a silent minority. Just as the construction of the Cultural Center was commemorated by breaking ground, Asian Americans will continue to do the same in the future as well.

Mentoring Program

Developed as a way to enhance and enrich a strong Asian American community on campus, the mentoring program offers Asian American undergraduate students opportunities to interact and network with other Asian American faculty, staff, alumni, and graduate students. Jointly sponsored by the Asian American Cultural Center and the Counseling Center, the program will match undergraduate students with mentors that can provide academic, career and/or personal guidance.

The mentors volunteer because they understand the benefits a mentor can play in students’ lives. They often help students deal with personal issues such as family expectations or relationships or they can assist in career development. Students sign up for the mentoring program because they are looking for guidance and support regarding career or personal developmental issues.

To learn more about the Asian American Mentoring Program, go to http://www.odos.uiuc.edu/aacc/mentoring.asp.
Faculty, staff, and students have collaborated to build a respected, scholarly Asian American Studies program at UIUC. In 1997, the Provost established the Asian American Studies Committee (AASC) - an academic unit responsible for the administration and development of a program in Asian American Studies. In 2000, the AASC became one of the ethnic studies programs under the college of Liberal Arts and Sciences. In 2002 the program hired a director, established an interdisciplinary minor, and continued to hire several new faculty. The Asian American Studies Program has established a presence on campus and raised awareness of Asian American issues through its various efforts:

- Published program newsletters
- Sponsored lectures and brown bag seminars
- Sponsored film series and festivals on Asian American experiences
- Created a reading room with resources on Asian American issues open to students and the community
- Built a program with faculty and courses offered in political science, English, anthropology, psychology, educational policy studies, history, Latina/o studies, sociology, theatre, cinema studies, religious studies, social work, film and media, dance, and music

ROBERT ALLERTON PARK AND CONFERENCE CENTER
515 Old Timber Rd. | Monticello, IL 61856
Phone: 217.762.7011   Web: http://www.allerton.uiuc.edu/index.html

Located just outside Monticello, Illinois, Allerton Park is a place known for its unique blend of art, architecture, ecology and agriculture. Among the many sculptures featured in the park, there are a few that are inspired by the arts of Asian cultures. Lined up the pathway to the Sunken Garden are a series of Chinese musicians, each playing its own instruments. In addition, the grounds feature 22 Fu Dogs, a Siamese Buddha, a pair of Japanese Guardian Fish, a pair of stone lions and a Chinese Goldfish.

What began as a small collection of European artwork in 1911 has now evolved to a collection of 45,000 pieces of artifacts from cultures around the world that makes up the Spurlock Museum. The museum maintains a permanent gallery of Asian cultures.

Highlights of the Asian Collections:

- Charles Bur Harper Collection of Artifacts from the Philippines
  A collection of 55 artifacts from the daily lives of the various people of the Philippines including the Aeta, Bontoc, Kalinga, Ifugao, Bagobo, and Maranao.

- Chinese Robe and Cuffs
  This collection features a Chinese robe and five sets of embroidered cuffs that dates back to the Qing Dynasty (1644-1911).

- Freund Collection of Chinese and Japanese Wood Carvings
  This collection of 111 Japanese and Chinese wood carvings dates back to the Edo (1614-1868) and Meiji (1868-1912) periods in Japan and from the Qing (Chi'ng) Dynasty (1644-1911) in China.

The Krannert Center for the Performing Arts is one of the nation's premier educational and professional performing arts complexes. The setting for over 300 performances each year, the Krannert Center has offered the UIUC community a wealth of musical and theatrical performances since 1969.

The 2005-2006 performance season features a wide range of performances. Among the artists scheduled to appear are two extraordinary Asian American musicians.

Sarah Chang, violinist
Friday, December 2, 2005 at 7:30pm at Foellinger Great Hall

Twenty-four-year-old Sarah Chang was born in Philadelphia as the daughter of Korean parents. She started playing the violin at age four, and within a year performed with orchestras in the Philadelphia. By the time she was eight, she was playing with the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia Orchestra. She is the recipient of several awards including Gramophone's "Young Artist of the Year" and "Newcomer of the Year" at the International Classical Music Awards in London.

Yo-Yo Ma, cellist
Friday, April 7, 2006 at 7:30pm at Foellinger Great Hall

Fifteen-time Grammy Award winning artist Yo-Yo Ma was born to Chinese parents living in Paris. He began to study the cello with his father at age four and came with his family to New York where he studied with Janos Scholz. In 1962, he began his studies with Leonard Rose at the Juilliard School. With over 50 albums released, Yo-Yo Ma is one of the best-selling recording artists in the classical field. Among his many awards, he is also the recipient of Gramophone's "Artist of the Year" and was recognized with an honorary doctorate in music by his alma mater, Harvard University.

Since 1961, the Krannert Art Museum has served as a center of aesthetic enjoyment and intellectual inquiry for the University of Illinois community and the residents of Central Illinois. The Museum is the second largest art museum in the state and is home to 8,000 artifacts. In addition to the 10 galleries of permanent exhibits, the Center also brings 12-15 exhibitions throughout the year from other museums and collections, both nationally and internationally. The Museum possesses a diverse collection of artifacts from various parts of Asia including the countries of China, India, Japan, and Thailand. The collection includes ancient pottery, religious sculptures, and 17th century paintings and screens.
The Counseling Center is designed to help students address many academic, relational and emotional concerns. The staff at the Counseling Center is from diverse backgrounds and has a wealth of experience working with students. Staff members of Asian descent at the counseling Center are more than eager to discuss issues facing Asian and Asian American students. Don't hesitate to make an appointment!

Besides one-on-one-counseling, the Counseling Center also offer services such as reading/study skills programs, educational workshops, group and couples' therapy, and self-help brochures on a wide range of topics. Upon request, the staff can also present workshops on specific topics such as interracial dating, gender, culture, Asian American identity, media stereotyping of Asian Americans, racism, sexism, and intergenerational issues.

PROGRAM ON INTERGROUP RELATIONS

The Program on Intergroup Relations (PIR) facilitates dialogue among students from different social and cultural backgrounds. We provide students with a proactive educational experience that promotes the exploration of group identities and open discussion of social justice issues such as discrimination based on class, gender, race, religion, sexual orientation, or disability.

PIR seeks to advance students' understanding of and respect for diversity and social justice issues and to augment students’ skills in responding to intergroup differences and conflicts.

Courses that will be offered in Fall 2005:
- Men and Women Dialogue
- Race and Ethnicity Dialogue
- Exploring Religious Diversity
- Exploring Social Class
- Exploring Sexual Orientation
- Exploring Disability

How Can I Stop Hate?

Silence = Acceptance, Speak Loudly!!!

As an Asian American, you may experience unfair treatment due to your race, ethnicity, culture, language, religion, gender, sexual orientation, or disability. You may be subjected to offensive language, insensitivity to cultural and religion practices, verbal insults and slurs, physical threats and harassment. It may happen anywhere, in class, at work or while you are just walking down the street.

What can I do? Report it to the Office of the Dean of Students by calling 333.0050.
The Center for East Asian and Pacific Studies was established in 1964 to develop an academic program that focused on Asia. The Center promotes and supports academic endeavors across the University that focus on East Asia, Southeast Asia and Oceania. It organizes academic conferences and seminars, administers overseas exchanges for faculty and students, and has an active outreach program that runs seminars and develops curriculum for pre-collegiate educators. In 2004-2005, the Center celebrated a Year of Asia, bringing attention to the cultures, languages, arts and dynamism of the peoples of Asia.

East Asian Languages and Cultures has courses in the languages, literatures, societies, and cultures of China, Japan, and Korea. The department offers a major and a minor as well as Master and Doctoral degrees. In addition, the department also provides numerous opportunities for language study in China, Japan, and Korea. Students can also participate in intensive-language training programs in China and Korea through the University of Illinois exchange program with institutions in those countries.

The Program on South Asian and Middle Eastern Studies offers an interdisciplinary minor in South Asian Studies. The structure of the minor provides students a great amount of flexibility; possible areas of emphasis include language and literature, as well as history and social sciences. In addition, the program also administers the South Asian and Middle Eastern concentration of the MA in Asian Studies, which is offered through the Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures.
The Center on Democracy in a Multiracial Society is a unique university-based research and teaching institute organized around a commitment to the practice of democracy and equality within a changing multiracial U.S. society. The Center is a component of a broader campus diversity initiative and is designed to serve as catalyst for vigorous scholarly and public debate on the multiple racial contexts of democracy. Its overall mission calls for preparing graduate and undergraduate students and the wider public for civic engagement and participation in a racially and ethnically diverse society.

The University offers numerous opportunities to study abroad programs. Students can choose to study at one of the 50 countries where programs are offered. There are currently six Asian countries that have study abroad programs: China/Hong Kong, Japan, South Korea, Philippines, India, Singapore and Thailand. Students can take advantage of these opportunities in the Fall and Spring semesters as well as the summer and winter break. To learn more about going abroad, students can visit the Study Abroad Resource room or attend a First Steps meeting to learn how to research the different study abroad locations, classes, terms, scholarships, financial aid, and more. Students can also visit the website for more information or look for the study abroad fair that are held each Fall.

Asian Language Courses

The University regularly offers language courses for:

Chinese (CHIN), Japanese (JAPN), Korean (KOR) in the Department of East Asian Languages and Cultures

Hindi-Urdu (HNDI) and Sanskrit (SNSK) in the Department of Linguistics

Registered organizations sometimes offering language courses:
Mandarin Chinese by the Chinese Heritage Association
Taiwanese by the Taiwanese American Students Club
Vietnamese by the Vietnamese Student Association
FUNDING RESOURCES

CENTRAL RESIDENTIAL FUNDING BOARD (CRFB)

The Central Residential Funding Board provide students living in the University Residence Halls easy access to supplemental funding for any program or activity that fits within Housing and University policies. The CRFB meets regularly throughout the semester to review all funding requests. For more information on how to apply for funding, check out the CRFB website at: http://www.housing.uiuc.edu/living/crfb/.

PROGRAM COORDINATING COUNCIL (PCC)

The Program Coordinating Council of Student Affairs provides funding to student organizations upon request. Requests should allow six weeks for review. PCC will not fund more than 50% of the total program. Evaluations must be submitted after the event and PCC must be listed as a co-sponsored of the event. To request an application or to learn more, contact Associate Dean Cathy Acevedo, at the Office of the Dean of Students located inside the Turner Student Services Building at 610 E. John Street or call her at 217.333.0050.

STUDENT CULTURAL PROGRAMMING FEE (SCPF)

The purpose of the Student Cultural Programming Fee is to provide direction and allocation of resources for culture-specific programming for African American, Asian American, Latina/o, and Native American programs and activities. The goal is to advance further cultural awareness, encourage diversity, educate the greater community as a whole, and provide a forum for the development, exploration, and improvement of cultural programs. Anyone affiliated with UIUC may request funding from SCPF. Programs must meet the purpose of the SCPF and follow all guidelines and restrictions. The allocation committees meet regularly during the academic year to consider applications for funding. Applications and funding guidelines are available online at the Office of the Dean of Students website or http://www.odos.uiuc.edu/scfm.asp.

STUDENT ORGANIZATION RESOURCE FEE (SORF)

The SORF Board is comprised of students, faculty and staff and is responsible for allocation of funds to registered organizations in support of their activities and events. Such activities and events should benefit the members of the organization and support the educational mission of University. All events sponsored by SORF should be open to UIUC students, free of charge and educational in nature. There are six periods during both the fall and spring semesters and one application period for summer to apply for funding. Organizations may only apply three times per a semester. To learn more about SORF and the application process visit their website at http://www.union.uiuc.edu/involvement/sorf.htm.
GLOBAL CROSSROADS LIVING/LEARNING COMMUNITY

Phone: 217.333.0541  Web: www.housing.uiuc.edu/living/gc/

The Global Crossroads Living/Learning Community is intended to challenge and motivate students whose interests, experiences, and aspirations have a strong international component. This global community provides students with opportunities to become interested in world events, improving understanding of global perspectives, practicing foreign language skills, or planning a future that includes international work or service.

INTERSECTIONS LIVING/LEARNING COMMUNITY

Phone: 217.265.0534  Web: http://www.housing.uiuc.edu/living/intersections/

Intersections is a Living/Learning Community that brings together students, faculty, and staff who are committed to improving race relations through intergroup dialogue, scholarship, research, the arts, and social action. We are a community of scholars in a multiracial/multietnic environment where students learn to talk about and across difference and sameness, increase their knowledge of their own and other groups, acquire the tools to analyze social inequality, and develop the skills to improve intergroup relations.

MULTICULTURAL ADVOCATES

Phone: 217.333.0770  http://www.housing.uiuc.edu/employment/student.htm

Multicultural Advocates (MAs) are students living in the residence halls who have specialized training on issues of identity such as gender, race, sexual orientation, religion, and socioeconomic status. MAs focus their time, talents, and enthusiasm on making our undergraduate halls safe, welcoming, and celebrative environments for all students. They provide programs and learning opportunities for students that deal primarily with issues of diversity, multiculturalism and social justice. They serve as leaders and role models within the residence hall community for confronting acts of intolerance or hate, encouraging dialogue among students, and working toward true multicultural communities.

Getting To Know...

Jonathan Chu

- Senior in Accounting
- My job is... Resident Advisor at Illinois Street Residence Hall (ISR), (former Multicultural Advocate within Residential Life)
- My advice about the residence halls is...to meet MANY new friends, build relationships on your floor and community, network with peers, and attend the student programs made for you!
- Students should take advantage of...
  1. ADAPT (New student orientation program for Asian Americans in the Residence Halls)
  2. Central Residence Funding Board is where you and your floor can get money for programs YOU want to do.
  3. Specialty Restaurants
  4. The Quad
  5. Join at least one registered student organization
  6. Grainger Library, for a nice place to study
  7. Resources at the Asian American Cultural Center. Enjoy the wide range of resources available to you such as movies, books, magazines, ethnic food tastes, etc. Check it out!
- Favorite dinning hall on campus... Illinois Street Residence hall, of course... during lunch time during the day, drop on by and eat!
There is no better way to spend a crisp fall afternoon or a sunny spring day than cheering on your Illinois athletic teams! As a charter member of the esteemed Big Ten Conference, the University of Illinois competes for national and conference championships in 19 intercollegiate sports.

The Division of Intercollegiate Athletics believes that an integral part of any college student's campus experience is the opportunity to follow your fellow students as they compete in their respective sports. For those of you looking for a more involved athletics experience, the following groups provide incredible benefits, including unlimited leadership, networking, and social opportunities. Get involved with Illinois athletics!!

Asian American Coaches

- Men's Gymnastics
  Yoshi Hayasaki (Head Coach)
  Won five Big Ten championships and one NCAA championship.

- Women's Tennis
  Sujay Lama (Head Coach)
  Second winningest coach of the program

- Women's Soccer
  Wen Sun (Volunteer Assistant Coach)
  Former member of the Chinese National Women's team from 1990-2003

Getting To Know...

Sujay Lama

- Head Coach of Women's Tennis
- Besides coaching...I enjoy reading, running and being a dad.
- During the off-season...I like to spend my time with my wife and two kids.
- One unknown fact about the UIUC athletic program...we have great camaraderie among coaches, athletes and the different teams.
- My favorite type of exercise is...jogging and playing tennis.
- My favorite food is...anything Burmese

Don't Forget to Attend!!!

Football Tailgate Party

1210 W. Nevada St., Urbana
September 10, 2005 @ 9:00am

Come to the AACC for brunch before the Illinois vs. San Jose State football game at 1:00pm. This is the place to be if you want to meet new friends and catch up with old ones. Come to hear what Asian American athletes and coaches have to say about Illinois Athletics. Following the brunch, join us as we head to Memorial Stadium to cheer for the Illinois team.
For those of you looking for a more involved athletics experience, the following groups provide incredible benefits, including unlimited leadership, networking, and social opportunities. Get involved with Illinois athletics!!

Illini Pride (Orange Krush, Block I) - student organization supporting all sports. For information, visit http://www.illinipride.com

Marching Illini & Basketball Bands - the musical arm of Illinois athletics. For information, visit http://www.bands.uiuc.edu/MI

The University of Illinois Library on the Urbana-Champaign campus is the largest public university library in the world. Among the 41 departments/units and collection of more than 10 million volumes lie both Asian American literature that covers history, politics, fiction, and poetry. In addition, the university also maintain a huge Asian collection that is kept in the Asian Library which is located inside the main library.

The Asian Library collects Asian vernacular materials in Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Arabic, Hebrew, Indic, Persian, Indonesian, Vietnamese, and Thai. The unit's reading room also contains a collection of reference works and a selection of current periodicals on Asia in western languages. The primary focus of the collections is on humanities and social sciences and is strong in the areas of linguistics, literature, history, philosophy and religion, cultures, and societies.

The Asian collection currently contains approximately 300,000 volumes, including 180,000 in East Asian languages and 120,000 in South and West Asian languages. The East Asian collection currently ranks third in size in the Midwest and 14th in the nation. The South Asian and Middle Eastern division is one of the forty-two departmental libraries in the UIUC campus system. In 1979, it was consolidated with the Far Eastern Library to become an integral part of the Asian Library.
Asian Americans are the largest minority group on campus. Asian Americans are also an extremely diverse group made up of many different ethnic groups. Asians are persons “having origins in any of the original peoples of the Far East, Southeast Asia, or the Indian subcontinent.” They include:

East Asian generally means Chinese, Korean, and Japanese.
Southeast Asian generally means Cambodian, Hmong, Laotian, and Vietnamese.
South Asian generally mean Asian Indian, Bangladeshi, Bhutanese, Nepalese, Pakistani, and Sri Lankan.
