ENVIRONMENTAL PUBLICATIONS FOR PRINTERS August 9, 2000

The ability to put programs into place to both achieve compliance with environmental regulations as well as reduce pollution is dependent upon having easily understood and accurate information. EPA has invested a considerable amount of time and effort to provide reports, guides, and other information to the regulated community. The publications identified in the attached list are those that should be of interest to printers.

While abstracts of the contents are not provided, the title, publication number and contacts for ordering the publication are identified. There is not cost for any of the identified publications. If the links provided do not connect you to the specific publication, then you can access it by searching EPA's National Service Center for Environmental Publications (<https://www.epa.gov/nscep>)
