

What kind of student are you?

It is always hard to determine who I am because it is inevitable to have some bias involved. However, if I need to describe myself, I would say I'm a guy who struggles to change my sluggish life style. When I was in high school, I often put off doing homework till the day before it was due and barely finished it. As I graduated high school, I decided myself to terminate the bad habit. I was changed a lot after I got into the college but sometimes I still procrastinate doing homework and studying for exams. Since there is much less exams and quizzes assigned in the college than in high school, the procrastination had a huge negative effect on my grade last semester. It's too late to regret what I had done so I tried to learn from mistakes.

These days, I am trying my best to get a good result in Rhet. 105 class and have been trying my best; I attended every meeting that AHP held on Thursday. It was sometimes very hard for me to do so, since I often had a test or homework that is due on Friday. I am proud of what I have been doing and sure that I will finish the project strong.
