Promoting Discussion in Wartime

ON BEHALF OF the readers of College and Research Libraries, the editors wish to express their pleasure in the action taken by the President of the A.C.R.L., Charles B. Shaw, and the Board of Directors (see the list of officers of the Association on the back cover of the June issue) in enabling College and Research Libraries to make each number of Volume V a full ninety-six-page issue. Heretofore, only two of the four issues each year have been ninety-six-page issues.

Ever since regular meetings of the Association have been suspended on account of the war College and Research Libraries has redoubled its efforts to meet the needs of its readers. It is no time for a moratorium of discussion. The only substitute under the circumstances is the columns of professional journals.

It should be added that, in view of the shortage of paper, the generous action of the officers of the A.C.R.L. would have been without effect had it not been for the understanding cooperation of Mr. Milam and the Headquarters staff.
