Upon moving into a building of its own in 1890, the library had 13,000 volumes and was open four hours a day. Having outgrown its quarters, a new $50,000 library building was occupied in 1911 which was replaced in 1951 by a $1,500,000 air-conditioned home which could accommodate 1,250 readers and 450,000 volumes. Dwelling on personnel, the collection, finances, and library development, this study presents information that has nowhere else been brought together previously in the same way.

The purpose of the paper is to bring together the known facts about the "father of the typographic art in Mississippi" and to evaluate them. With the emphasis on Mississippi's first imprints, Marschall's arrival in the Mississippi territory has been carefully traced in an effort to establish the date of the first imprint in Mississippi. Compelling reasons are advanced for rejecting The Galley Slave, which has for some time been considered a product of Marschall's press, as Mississippi's first imprint.
