Solve your want list problems this practical U-M way

The O-P book problem has been solved. If you want to secure a reproduction of any book extant, it can be done through University Microfilms microfilm-xerography process, at reasonable cost. Send title, author, and publisher if known.

Thousands of Titles now on film

This marvelous development means that the huge literary resources of old English and American and foreign language books now on films at U-M are available in book form. The U-M vaults also include microfilms of not-so-old titles where limited demand discouraged new printed editions.

Resources constantly expanding

The microfilming of "modern" books is a continuing program of the O-P book department. Thousands of titles have been filmed at the request of many librarians. Books you need may now be available. Send for this catalogue. It also gives complete information on how to secure titles not yet listed.

Dictionary Catalog of the HISTORY of the AMERICAS
Collection of
THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY

REFERENCE DEPARTMENT

PRODUCTION of this important catalog has just been completed and several copies are now available for immediate shipment. Dr. Gerald McDonald, Chief, American History and Genealogy Division of The New York Public Library, has given us the following description of the collection and its catalog:

The catalog of The New York Public Library's American History Room covers both North and South America. It represents a large, well rounded research collection which reflects the development of the new world from earliest times to the present. The American History Room has over 100,000 volumes, but the catalog also lists — under author and subject — thousands of books which are shelved elsewhere in the Library. Especially important are the analytics. For over fifty years the Library has been developing a unique reference aid through indexing important articles found in scholarly journals. The catalog (as is the Library) is particularly strong in American Indian material, in pamphlets relating to political history, and in works — old and new — which deal with discovery, exploration and settlement.

The 554,000 cards in this catalog are reproduced by offset with 21 entries per 10" x 14" page. Acid-free paper without ground wood is used. There are 28 volumes of about 1000 pages each, oversewn, with Class A Library Binding, stamped in gold.

This is a limited edition and it is suggested that you place your order as soon as possible to assure availability.
