ZOOLOGY and ORNITHOLOGY

— MCGILL UNIVERSITY, MONTREAL —

WE ARE PLEASED to publish the catalogue of this important collection on natural history. The following description is based on information provided by Mr. John H. Archer, Director of University Libraries at McGill University:

The Blacker-Wood Library contains the bulk of the natural history holdings of the McGill University Library, with nearly 60,000 volumes, including bound reprints. The earliest work is a 1472 edition of Pliny's Natural History, and the latest a modern work in oceanography.

Particular emphasis is given to periodicals and serial holdings. The Wood Library was originally intended to supply the fullest coverage possible of periodicals and serials devoted to bird-life. Its endowment, supplemented by funds from other sources, has been sufficient to maintain this policy, and as a result the library is particularly rich in these fundamentals, so necessary to research in ornithology. In the same way, the continuation of the Blacker Library's many zoological periodicals and serials, and the yearly addition of important new publications on vertebrate zoology, have been made possible through endowment funds. The Blacker-Wood Collection, therefore, contains more than 2,000 periodical sets, of which 500 are current. For the older and more important runs, analytics are provided in the catalogue.

The collection contains references to more than 20,000 manuscript notes and letters of naturalists, e.g., Robert Ridgway, John Gould, Elliott Coues; and numerous original drawings and paintings by artists such as Charles Collins and Edward Lear. The catalogue has a special section on manuscripts and facsimiles; pictures and photographs are listed under broad subject areas such as "Zoology" or "Ornithology."

Of particular interest are the Oriental items on natural history listed in the manuscript section; the Gurney collection of reprints, chiefly on crustacea and entomology, for which analytics are provided; the falconry items, whose imprints range over four centuries; and an appended list of 156 feather pictures of the 17th century.

The catalogue is arranged in dictionary form according to ALA rules. Bibliographies, illustrations, and autograph notations are indicated, and notes of association interest are given.

The 131,000 cards in this catalogue have been reproduced by offset on Permalife paper with 21 cards per 10" x 14" page. The nine volumes are bound in Class A library binding.
