Catalog of

MANUSCRIPTS

of the

Massachusetts Historical Society

WE ARE PRIVILEGED to publish the catalog of this important collection of manuscripts. The following description has been provided by Mr. Stephen T. Riley, Director, Massachusetts Historical Society:

The Massachusetts Historical Society, the oldest society of its kind in the United States, began collecting historical materials in 1791, the year of its founding. Early in its existence the Society narrowed its collecting aims to historical manuscripts and books and such related materials as would "mark the genius, delineate the manners, and trace the progress of society in the United States." In its long history particular attention was given to gathering in manuscripts, and with such good effect that today it ranks as one of the major manuscript depositories in the country. Certainly no accurate history of the United States — to say nothing of New England — could be written without recourse to its holdings.

As has been stated elsewhere, the importance of the collection may best be suggested by pointing out that of 112 eminent Americans, from earliest to recent times and in every field of endeavor, whose papers the National Historical Publications Commission has recommended for publication, almost one-third are represented in the Massachusetts Historical Society by either the principal collection of their surviving papers or by significant bodies of correspondence (A National Program for the Publication of Historical Documents: A Report. Washington, 1954).

The card catalog is a dictionary catalog with entries under personal and corporate names, and to a lesser degree under subjects and geographical areas. A great many of the collections have been cataloged in depth; others selectively, and still others by main entry only. In the case of recent acquisitions, the main entry will refer the reader to more detailed descriptions of them available at the Society.

The approximately 247,000 cards in this catalog have been reproduced by offset with approximately 40 cards per 10" x 14" page. The seven volumes are bound in Class A library binding. A supplement to this catalog is planned.
