THE INTERNATIONAL PORTRAIT GALLERY

This new resource in visual aids brings schools and libraries a convenient source for more than 750 portraits of famous authors, explorers, statesmen, scientists, and other international figures.

Each portrait is sharply reproduced in black and white, size 8½" x 11", with captions which give name, vocation, nationality, and date of birth and death. Included are fifty alphabetically-tabbed file folders and a four-part Master Index identifying portraits by name, major field of activity, year of birth and year of death.

AN O'NEILL CONCORDANCE
By J. Russell Reaver, The Florida State University

This is a three-volume computer-compiled concordance based on the Random House collected edition of O'Neill's works, plus several Yale University Press editions of other plays, including all of the O'Neill plays published since 1924 and representative early plays, with only the very early apprenticeship work entirely omitted.

Its 307,000 references enable the researcher now to approach untapped areas of specialized study, to make systematic appraisals of the stylistic and structural characteristics, and to explore the whole range of his language, dialect, jargon, and vernacular patterns.

THE LIBRARY OF GOLF, 1743-
1966: A Bibliography of Golf Books
Indexed Alphabetically, Chronologically,
and by Subject Matter
Compiled and Annotated by Joseph S. F. Murdoch

The Library of Golf is the most complete bibliography now available to the hundreds of books published during the last two centuries on the game's history, legends, lore, theories, and techniques.

The introduction traces the literature of golf from its beginnings (1457) in Scotland. This is followed by an 899-entry annotated bibliography of English-language books, a 31-entry foreign-language bibliography, and three indexes. Illustrated.

GRADUATE SCHOOL of DESIGN
Harvard University

WE ARE PRIVILEGED to publish this important catalogue of the Library of the Graduate School of Design. Miss Caroline Shillaber, the Librarian, has furnished the following information:

The library of the Graduate School of Design is an internationally known source of research in the fields of architecture, landscape architecture, and urban planning.

It excels in its coverage of urban planning which extends back to the early years of the century when the profession itself was developing and the first courses at any university were taught at Harvard. The library has references to all topics within the general field: urban renewal, urban design, city and regional planning, state and national planning, housing, zoning, regional science, developing nations, computer technology, and many other topics. Landscape architecture is represented by a distinguished and unexcelled collection of both American and European examples. It includes many books on design, plant materials, ecology, and related subjects. Literature on architecture has been acquired since the library was begun in 1893 and has grown steadily to become one of the foremost collections in the country. Special emphasis in recent years has been on contemporary architecture, building, and construction.

The Libraries of Charles Eliot (1859-1897), landscape architect, and Charles Mulford Robinson (1869-1917), city planner, are incorporated in the main catalogues. Writings by and about Frederick Law Olmsted (father and son) are the most comprehensive in existence.

Growth of the library was rapid in order to assemble as complete collections as possible in the three principal subjects of architecture, landscape architecture, and urban planning. Today it includes 140,000 books, pamphlets, periodicals, and theses. Subject cataloguing, one of the most effective tools for research, has been unusually comprehensive.

A unique feature of the catalogue has been the systematic indexing of periodical articles begun when the library was established and continued to the present day. In addition, the pamphlet collection of several thousand items has been fully catalogued with author and subject entries. Cards for every type of material have been interfiled in one alphabetic sequence in the catalogue and now number over half a million cards.

The 594,000 cards in this catalogue have been reproduced by offset on Permalife paper with 21 cards per 10" x 14" page. The 44 volumes are bound in Class A library binding.

Effective May 1, 1969, the price of this publication will be $2860.00.
