THE PROBLEM OF LONG-OUT-OF-PRINT DOCUMENTS

Now that the world's largest retrospective collection of GPO to the National Archives—and re-shelve libraries, for the first time, can order facsimiles of U.S. Government documents published since

CHECKLIST '75 AND ITS NEW INDEXES AND ORDER

The collection, of course, is GPO's Public Documents Library, long recognized as the most complete U.S. Government documents collection because of its statutory retention requirements. During 1972, all pre-1971 materials were moved to Printed Archives Branch of the National Archives and Record Service, whose staff has just recently completed re-shelving them in Superintendent-of-Documents Classification order (the same arrangement used in the Shelflist card files). Meanwhile, the materials for 1971 and 1972 have recently been received and are now in the re-shelving process. The compiled card catalogs and the later documents are still kept at GPO.

As GPO had kept the Public Document collection close during its decades of custodianship, the sudden availability of facsimiles and microfilm copies under the usual National Archives sales terms must be considered an important step toward the wider and more effective reference use of U.S. Government documents.

CHECKLIST OF UNITED STATES PUBLIC DOCUMENTS 1789-1975

THIS DUAL-MEDIA EDITION CONTAINS NOTHING LESS THAN THE COMPLETE SHELFLIST OF GPO'S PUBLIC DOCUMENTS LIBRARY—WITH ITS CARD CATALOGS ON MICROFILM AND WITH TWENTY-ONE HARDCOVER INDEX VOLUMES.

CHECKLIST '75

—contains some 1.3 million full bibliographic entries for more than 2 million U.S. Government publications issued from 1789 through 1975.

—is arranged on microfilm according to the Su Docs Classification System but is also accessible by title and by the names of government author-organizations via its printed index volumes. Accordingly, it is a primary source for the bibliographic data needed in identifying and ordering copies of out-of-print U.S. Government publications.

—includes, in one place, all the bibliographic data contained in the 1909 Checklist (1789-1909), the Documents Catalogues (1893-1940) and the Monthly Catalogs (1895-1975), plus entries for thousands of publications never listed in any of those publications.

—expands and updates Checklist '70 with the addition of more than 100,000 new entries accumulated over the past 5½ years.

UPDATING CHECKLIST '70

During the years since we first began filming Checklist '70, the U.S. Government has published more than 100,000 documents, many on such vital topics as the Viet Nam War, Watergate, recession, detente, fuel shortages, agipower, terrorism, environmental problems, consumer protection, foreign policy realignment, and of course, investigations of everything from intelligence operations to aerosol sprays. The cards describing these new additions were interfiling the Shelflists in Su Docs Class order, and re-filming operations began when the file was current as of January 1, 1976. Those new entries which involved changes in government author-organizations were picked up and listed in supplementary sections added to the five original indexes.

so means that the identification of documents by SuDocs Numbers has become more important than ever—and of course, is where the Checklist '75 indexes will play their most important part.

aries having their own substantial documents collection flagged in SuDocs Class order, or those which find it convenient to order or borrow copies of documents from their Regional Depository Libraries will, of course, also find the Checklist indexes invaluable in retrieving their documents without having to order copies from National Archives.

CUMULATIVE TITLE INDEX TO
U.S. GOVERNMENT PUBLICATIONS
1789-1975

THE LARGEST AND MOST COMPREHENSIVE TITLE INDEX TO U.S. GOVERNMENT DOCUMENTS EVER PRODUCED IN ANY FORMAT.

Here is the long awaited single-alphabet listing of all titles contained in the shelllists of the Public Documents Library—the "Million Title" index to CHECKLIST OF UNITED STATES DOCUMENTS, 1789-1975.

Now, for the first time, librarians with documents collections of every size and type will be able to identify the Superintendent of Documents Classification Numbers for more than one million titles published by the U.S. Government over the past 186 years—and, also for the first time, be able to use these SuDocs Class Numbers to order facsimile or microfilm copies of specific documents from a centralized source.

The massive Cumulative Title Index can be used either by itself to order documents when the title, date, and SuDocs Numbers are sufficient identification; or in conjunction with Checklist '75, when it is desirable to learn complete bibliographic data on a publication prior to ordering copies (e.g. to find out the numbers or pages which will have to be copied @ 15¢ each, or to isolate specific numbers or parts of series).

In addition to the title, SuDocs Class Number, and the date of the information in the document, each entry also gives the microfilm reel number on which the full description can be found in Checklist '75.

Jefferson's Fine Arts Library

His Selections for the University of Virginia Together with His Own Architectural Books

By William Bainter O'Neal.

xxii, 409 pp., illus., app., index. (University of Virginia Bicentennial Commission) $20.00

For the past twenty years the University of Virginia has gradually recreated the fine arts library suggested by Thomas Jefferson for the University's use, so that the literary sources of his architecture are now complete. Jefferson's Fine Arts Library records this important facet of Jefferson's creative life and the architectural thought of his day, and provides as well an assessment of Jefferson's attitudes toward the fine arts generally. One hundred fifty illustrations from the books themselves are included.

The Eye of Jefferson

Edited by W. Howard Adams.

xlii, 411 pp., illus., bibliog., index. (National Gallery) $20.00

This exhibition catalog reconstructs the aesthetic and intellectual environment in which Jefferson's eye and imagination developed and gives some indication of his remarkable achievements, from his earliest plans for Monticello to his culminating designs for the University of Virginia. Nearly all six hundred items comprising the Bicentennial exhibition at the National Gallery are reproduced in this catalog. Each item is accompanied by an entry explaining its relation to Jefferson and his world.

The Gaylord/Magnavox Book Security System: The Most Technologically Advanced

If you're looking for a book security system that you can feel secure about, look at the Gaylord/Magnavox Book Security System. It's a "2 in 1" system that is virtually false alarm-proof.

"2 in 1"

Designed to be either a Full Circulation System or a By-Pass System, it gives you the option of choosing one and being free to convert to the other almost overnight.

False Alarm-Free

Using the most recent developments in integrated circuitry, the system makes only positive detection decisions. When you hear the system sound, you know a book has been detected.

Aesthetically Pleasing

Available in many colors and textured finishes, with screens that are smaller than those of most systems, the Gaylord/Magnavox system is attractive as well as functional.

Economical

A competitively priced investment, it should pay for itself in two or three years, depending on the extent of your book losses. After that, as losses are reduced, the system should be generating income in the form of money saved.

Two Reliable Names

Magnavox—an innovator in electronics for over six decades; and Gaylord—exclusively committed to the development of library service for eighty years.

The Gaylord/Magnavox Book Security System—the one you can feel secure about.

Bibliography of Bioethics
Edited by Dr. LeRoy Walters. Volume 1 in the series of annual volumes is in print; Volume 2 ready January 1977. $24.00/vol.

"Walters, director of the Center for Bioethics, Kennedy Institute, Georgetown University, has compiled this first volume in a projected series of annual sourcebooks on a multidimensional subject. It presents a controlled vocabulary for the central issues of bioethics, and provides comprehensive, cross-disciplinary coverage of current English-language print and nonprint materials published during 1973. The thesaurus with scope notes has been carefully and consistently developed. The main part of the volume, the subject entry section, contains 800 unusually complete citations to a wide variety of sources. A list of journals cited, title index, and author index are also included. This timely and excellent work is indispensable for all academic and medical libraries." (James E. Bobick, Library Journal, December 15, 1975)

Library of Congress Classification Schedules: A Cumulation of Additions and Changes 1974-75
Edited by Helen Savage. 31 separately-bound cumulations of all material in LC's quarterly Additions and Changes for 1974 and 1975. Cumulations available separately—prices on request. Most cumulations are in print; all will be ready January 1977. $225.00/ set.

This new set of cumulations supplements Gale's Library of Congress Classification Schedules: A Cumulation of Additions and Changes Through 1973. Used together with LC's basic schedules, Gale's cumulations will enable libraries and catalogers to drastically reduce search time.

"Gale has given us a simple search formula. . . . Not just catalogers, but all librarians affected by the search problems involved in keeping up-to-date on LC classification are grateful." (Jeanne Osborn, RJ, Winter 1973)

Bookman's Price Index

The BPI series now contains over 500,000 entries: author; title; place and year of publication; description of book, including condition and price. The most up-to-date and most comprehensive reference book of its kind available to bookmen." (John R. Papers of the Bibliographical Society of America, Vol. 69, No. 2, 1974)

"Because the series is very useful for larger libraries, we certainly recommend standing orders for BPI." (American Reference Books Annual, 1974)

Book Review Index — Subscribe Now for 1977
Edited by Gary C. Tarbert. Periodical issues are published bimonthly, with every second issue cumulating the preceding issue. Subscription, with binder for new subscribers. $68.00/year. Annual Cumulations for 1965 through 1975 are in print. $88.00/year.

BRI now indexes all reviews in over 250 widely consulted periodicals. Starting in 1976, both the periodical issues and the annual cumulations contain title indexes. Entries include: author, title, reviewing publication, and date and page of review. BRI covers over 70,000 reviews of 35,000 new books each year.

"Book Review Index is comprehensive, accurate, and current. . . . Recommended." (Booklist, "Reference and Subscription Books Reviews," March 1, 1976)

These titles are available on standing order. All Gale books are sent on 30-day approval.
