Saintsbury in his Essays in English literature has given what he calls "the bones" of the historical novel. They are these: "Observe local colour and historical propriety, but do not become a slave to Dryasdust or Heavysterne. Intermix historic interest and the charm of well-known figures, but do not incur the danger of mere historical transcription; still more take care that the prevailing ideas of your characters, or your scene, or your action, or all three be fantastic and within your own discretion". With this skeleton for a foundation, the author who has the true historical imagination can take the dry facts of history and clothe them with flesh and blood and make them live again before our eyes. The result would no doubt be a perfect historical novel. Needless to say, however, it is a result seldom met with among the heterogeneous mass of historical fiction which has been given to the public in recent years.

The period of the rise and reign of Napoleon I in France has formed the subject of a somewhat limited number of historical novels. From these, when a choice has been possible, ten of the best have been selected and analyzed in order to bring out their historical value. It is hoped that such annotation may prove useful to the students of this period of French history and that the list itself may serve as a suggestion for supplementary reading. To facilitate reference two arrangements have been used, alphabetical for historical personages and chronological for historical events.

The analysis is based upon the following outline used by Mr. John Thomson of the Free library of Philadelphia in preparing his Dictionary of Historical Fiction.
Each work included in the list has one or more of the following features:

a. - An historical personage introduced as a speaking character, as Napoleon. Madame Sans-Gêne.

b. - An historical event categorically described, as Battle of Austerlitz. Tom Burke of "Ours".

c. - An historical town, city or place categorically described, as Moscow. War and Peace.

d. - Positive and tolerably minute description of the society and manners of a period, as Social life among the Russian aristocracy. War and Peace.

Leading characters, whether appearing in only a few chapters or throughout the entire work, have "pas" (for passim) written after their names. Any historical person introduced cursorily has "cur" to indicate the extent to which he appears in the work. Any person appearing in only one place has the number of the chapter given. Historical events are similarly treated.

LIST OF HISTORICAL NOVELS
Author:

Title: Madame Sans-Gêne; an historical romance founded upon the play of Victorien Sardou.

Period: 1792-1811.

Historical personages:

Barras, chap. 22, 24.
Beaurepaire - French commander, bk. 2, chap. 6, 10, 14.
Beaurepaire, Herminie de, bk. 2, chap. 5, 7-8, 14.
Bonaparte, Eliza, bk. 1, chap. 2-4; bk. 3, chap. 6.
Fouché, cur.
Hoche, Lazare, bk. 2, chap. 2-3.
Josephine, cur.
Lefebvre - French general, pas.
Lefebvre, Catherine - Madame Sans-Gêne, pas.
Marie-Louise of Austria, bk. 3, chap. 13.
Napoleon, pas.
Neipperg - Austrian officer, cur.

Historical events:

Attack upon the palace of the Tuileries & massacre of the Swiss guard, bk. 1, chap. 3-4.
Siege of Verdun, bk. 2, chap. 5-14.
Battle of Jemmapes, bk. 2, chap. 20.
Marriage of Napoleon & Josephine, bk. 2, chap. 25.
18th Brumaire - Napoleon made First consul, bk.2, chap.25.
Lefebvre made Duc de Dantzig, bk.3, chap.4-5.
Divorce of Napoleon & Josephine, bk.3, chap.7.

Town, city or place:--

France:
   Marseilles.
   Paris.
   Verdun.
   Versailles.

Prussia:
   Danzig.

Switzerland:
   Jemmappes.

Society & manners of the period:--

Assembly of the chief citizens at the court-house of Verdun, bk.2, chap.9-10.
Château & chapel, bk.2, chap.16-17.
Court life under the Empire, bk.3, cur.
(A)dancing lesson, bk.3, chap.1-2.
French laundress at the time of the Revolution, bk.1, cur.
Immorality of the times, cur.
Life of a cantiniere in the French army, bk.2, cur.
Popular ball in Paris 1792, bk.1, chap.1.

Critical estimate:--

"Victorien Sardou may be called the most fortunate of our modern dramatists. He abandons all pretensions to the dignity of a moralist; he does not profess to give us lessons or to analyze human passions...He does not above all belong to the gloomy psychological school which delights in exposing the worst parts of human nature. Sardou shows (or attempts to show) us in Madame Sans-Gêne a real Napoleon, a 'Napoleon intime'.

Author: - Dumas, Alexandre Davy.

Title: - Companions of Jehu. 2v.

Period: - 1799-1800.

Historical personages: -

Barras - member of the Directory, v.1, chap.23.
Bernadotte - French general, v.1, chap.21, 23.
Bonaparte, Lucien, v.1, chap.21, 22.
Bourrienne, Fauvelet de - Napoleon's secretary, cur.
Cadoudal, Georges - royalist conspirator, v.2, chap.4-7, 22.
Debel - French general, v.1, chap.23.
Fouché - minister of police, cur.
Gohier, Madame - wife of the president, v.1, chap.23.
Josephine, v.1, chap.20-24; v.2, chap.3.
Lefebvre - French general, v.1, chap.23.
Moreau - " " v.1, chap.20, 24.
Napoleon Bonaparte - First consul, pas.
Talleyrand - minister of foreign affairs, v.1, chap.20.

Historical events: -

Conspiracy of Georges Cadoudal, pas.
Return of Napoleon from Egypt, v.1, chap.1-2.
Fall of the Directory, v.1, chap.21-25.
18th Brumaire - Napoleon made First consul, v.1, chap.24.
Napoleon's change of residence from the Luxembourg to the Tuileries, v.2, chap.17.
Interview of Georges Cadoudal & Napoleon at the Tuileries, v.2, chap.23.
Capture, arrest, trial & execution of the four leading companions of Jehu, v.2, cur.

   Bourg.
   Paris.
Brétagne:
   Muzillac.
   La Trinité.
Italy:
   Marengo.

Society & manners of the period:
   Boar hunt, v.1, chap.13.
   Cave of Cezériat, v.2, chap.12.
   Church of Brou, v.1, chap.12.
   Duelling in France, v.1, chap.4; v.2, chap.28.
   French château, v.1, chap.11.
   Life in a French military school, v.1, chap.5.
Life of royalist conspirators under the Consulate, cur.
Madame Bonaparte's reception, v.1, chap.20-22.
Robbing of diligences, cur.

Critical estimate:-

"Dumas is, as always, scrupulously accurate in the strictly historical parts of the narrative. Indeed, as he himself said, the 'Companions of Jehu...is romanticized history rather than historical romance'. The events of the 18th Brumaire and of the days immediately preceding it follow very closely the most authentic accounts, and the author has followed his customary plan of weaving into his work innumerable small details of undoubted historical truth".

Author: Lever, Charles James.

Title: Tom Burke of "Ours". 2v.

Period: about 1800-1813.

Historical personages:

- Beauvais - royalist conspirator, v.1, cur.
- Josephine, cur.
- Murat - French marshal, v.2, chap.48-49.
- Napoleon, pas.
- Savary - minister of police, cur.
- St. Hilaire - French general, v.2, chap.49.

- Battle of Austerlitz, v.2, chap.48-49.
- Armistice between Austrian & French armies, v.2, chap.52.
- Napoleon's entry into Berlin, v.2, chap.70.
- Invasion of France by the Allies, v.2, chap.83-86.
Town, city or place:

France:
- Mayence.
- Paris.
- Versailles.

Germany:
- Austerlitz.

Ireland:
- Dublin.

- Enthusiastic devotion of the French soldiers for Napoleon, cur.
- Field hospital, v.2, chap.49.
- Garden of the Tuileries, v.1, chap.40.
- Life of an Irish soldier in the French army, pas.
- Life of royalist conspirators, cur.
- Police espionage, cur.
Social life in Paris under the Empire, cur.

Critical estimate: -

"With Charles Lever passes away a style of novel peculiarly his own...He is never sensational, in the sense in which that phrase has become descriptive of a class of novels in which the enormities of human nature - outrageous crimes and abominable sins - are essentials. Nor, on the other hand, is he the de-pictor of calm real life, extracting its interest from the dis-charge of daily duties and the sentiments and passions of ordi-nary people...He has, however, his own peculiar style, neither still life nor life in convulsions,- the life of dramatic action full of movement, incident, situation, pageant, and, if we may use the illustration, stage effect. Into this he throws the energy of a lively genius, a joyous temperament, a ready wit, a keen appreciation of character, a good deal of sagacity and a large experience of mankind".

Living age, Sept. 4, 1872. v. 114:735-41.

"Tom Burke - by many accounted his best work - is espec-ially valuable for its portrayal of the enthusiasm excited by Napoleon I and of the life of the Irish exiles in Paris".

Dictionary of National Biography.
Author: - Balzac, Honoré de.

Title: - An historical mystery.

Period: - 1803-1829.

Historical personages: -

Chargeboeuf - French nobleman, chap.11, 19.
Fouché - minister of police, cur.
Laurence, comtesse de Cinq-Cygne, pas.

Tallyrand - minister of foreign affairs, cur.

Historical events: -

Conspiracy of royalist followers of Moreau & Pichegru, pas.
Encampment of the French army on the banks of the Saale, chap.19.

Town, city or place: -

France:

Paris.

Troyes.

Prussia:

Saale river near Jena.

Society & manners of the period: -

Château & park of Gondreville, chap.1.
Dress of fashionable young man of the period, chap.1.
Forest of Nodesme, chap.7.
Law courts & a trial in 1806, chap.17-18.
Life of young royalist conspirators, pas.
Police vigilance, cur.
Royalist home & its occupants under the Consulate, chap. 5.

Critical estimate:
"Take also, An Historical Mystery, which is not the best known of the novels of Balzac but which is, nevertheless, one of the most finished. All the documents which have been brought to light for some years on the period of the Consulate have only shown the truth of the personal recollection and the prophecy for the future which were mingled in this picture of the parties, the minds of men and the customs on the eve of the proclamation of the Empire. And in Napoleonic literature itself, I know of nothing more imperial than the audience given by the Emperor to Madame de Cinq-Cygne on the battle-field of Jena".

Alexander - emperor of Russia, cur.
Champagny - French marshal, chap.22, 41.
Corvisart - Napoleon's physician, chap.41.
Duroc - French marshal, cur.
Francis - emperor of Austria, chap.44.
Frederick William III - king of Prussia, pas.
Hardenberg - Prussian nobleman, chap.16-18, 29.
Hatzfeld - Prussian princess, chap.12.
Lannes - French marshal, chap.26.
Lefebvre - " " chap.26.
Lombard - Prussian cabinet councillor, chap.5-6.
Louisa - queen of Prussia, pas.
Maria-Louisa - archduchess of Austria, chap.45.
Metternich - Austrian minister, chap.44.
Müller, Johannes von - Swedish historian, chap.33-34.
Napoleon, pas.
Rapp - aide-de-camp to Napoleon, chap.41.
Staps, Frederick - German patriot, chap.2-3, 41-42.
Stein - Prussian minister, cur.
Tallyrand- minister of foreign affairs, cur.
Historical events:

Flight of the Royal family of Prussia from Berlin, chap.6-7
Napoleon at the tomb of Frederick the Great, chap.9.
Napoleon's entry into Berlin, chap.10.
Pardon of Prince von Hatzfeld, chap.12.

Interview between Napoleon & Queen Louisa at Tilsit, chap.30.
Meeting of Napoleon & Alexander at Erfurt, chap.39.
Death of Ferdinand von Schiller, chap.48.
Attempted assassination of Napoleon at Schonbrunn, chap.51
Execution of Frederick Staps, chap.52.
Return of the Prussian royal family to Berlin, chap.53.
Death of Queen Louisa, chap.57.

Town, city or place:-

Austria:
Vienna.

Germany:
Berlin.

Prussia:
Battlefield of Auerstadt, chap.1.
Erfurt.
Memel.
Potsdam.
Society & manners of the period:

Attitude of the Prussian populace toward the noblemen & officers, chap.15.

Home life of the Prussian royal family, cur.

League of virtue, cur.

Love of the Prussians for Queen Louisa, cur.

Riot of the citizens of Berlin, chap.4-5.

Critical estimate:

Although Miss Mühlbach's novels may be considered inartistic and extravagant in treatment, nevertheless there is a liveliness of description and narration which arouses the interest and holds the attention to the end. In her Napoleon and the Queen of Prussia historical details are closely followed and an interesting picture of Prussian life at the time of Napoleon's invasion is given.
Author: Dumas, Alexandre Davy.

Title: The twin lieutenants.

Period: 1809-1815.

Historical personages:

Bertier - French marshal, cur.
Bubna - Austrian general, chap.8-9.

Russia:
   Moscow.

Society & manners of the period:-

   Attitude of the German students toward the French, cur.
   League of virtue in Germany, chap.4-5, cur.
   Palace of Schonbrunn, chap.9.

Critical estimate:-

"Dumas has the faculty as no other novelist has, of presenting rapid and brilliant diormas of the picturesque aspects of history, animating them with really human if not very intricately analyzed passion, and connecting them with dialogue matchless of its kind".

Peasant life in Russia, v.3, pt.2, chap.8-14.
Preparations of a Russian noble family for the departure from Moscow, v.3, pt.3, chap.12-17.
Release of the insane & convicts before the burning of Moscow, v.3, pt.3, chap.24-25.
Russian army life, cur.
Social life among the aristocracy at St.Petersburg & Moscow, cur.

Critical estimate:-

"In War and Peace he (Tolstoi) has drawn a series of pictures of Russia, military and domestic, as it appeared during the first quarter of the present century, especially at the period when it bore up against the tremendous shock of Napoleon's invasion, and changed the course of European history...Out of a great mass of small details he carefully composes an admirable picture. Once begin to suppress details and the picture gradually fades away. We may take as instances the lifelike scene of an artillery contest early in the book, in which the busy young officer, Tushin, and the gunners who obey his orders, are brought before the reader's eye with wonderful force and clearness; and the description of Moscow teeming with life and energy when the invasion began, deserted and as though dead when the invaders looked down upon it from Sparrow Hills and Napoleon vainly waited for deputations of boyars. Still more impossible is it to give an idea of the keen insight shown by the author in his slight but true analyses of peasant and soldier character, or in his fuller delineations of the changes wrought by time and fortune in the minds of the principal actors on his stage".

Author: - Alcock, Deborah.

Title: - The Czar; a tale of the time of the first Napoleon.

Period: - 1806-1825.

Historical personages: -

Society & manners of the period: -

Life in the Russian army, cur.
Life of a conscript in the French army, cur.
Peasant life in Russia, cur.
Religious devotion of the Russians, cur.
Russian village, chap.1.

Critical estimate:-

In this book Miss Alcock has given a vivid picture of the life in both the Russian and French armies during Napoleon's Russian campaign. Peasant life in Russia is well described and the evacuation and burning of Moscow is realistically pictured.
Author: - Erckmann, Émile & Chatrian, Alexandre.

Title: - The conscript; a story of the French war of 1813.

Period: - 1813.

Historical personages: -

Society & manners of the period: -

- Attitude of the German citizens toward the French soldiers, chap.16.
Conscription, chap. 6.

French hospital, chap. 15-16.

Life of a conscript in the French army, pas.

Critical estimate:

"The position which Erckmann and Chatrian occupy in French literature and history is unique. They worked a field which no one had worked before, and which no one has worked since with the same purpose... They deliberately set to work to use the material furnished by the First Republic and Napoleonic periods for a series of national romances. In a style at once clear and flowing and with painstaking fidelity to the truth of history they made the events of these periods live again".

Effect on the French people of Napoleon's return from Elba, cur.

Life of a conscript in the French army, cur.

Love & loyalty of the French soldiers shown for Napoleon during the Hundred days, cur.
Critical estimate:

"These delightful works (of Erckmann-Chatrian) well deserve their great success. Not only is the couleur locale admirably preserved, but the very spirit of those who took part in the events, is reproduced. No more delightful and profitable relief from severe studies on the entire Revolutionary and Imperial periods can be imagined".
