HEAD OF DEPARTMENT OF Library Science
General Assembly of the State of Illinois.

First Assembly held at Kaskaskia,
First session, October 5-13, 1818,
Second session, January 4- March 31, 1819.

Second Assembly held at Vandalia,
December 4, 1820- February 15, 1821.
PREFACE

In December, 1820, during the second Assembly, Henry S. Dodge was authorized to furnish the public printers with an annotated and indexed copy of the laws passed by the General Assembly of the State of Illinois. No mention was made of the Journals of the Senate and House of Representatives and it was not until the eleventh Assembly, 1839-40 that they were published with indexes.

The first records of states almost invariably show a lack of appreciation on the part of their compilers, of future historical value, but because they tell of the beginnings and gradual development of history, they become in time among its most important sources. The following index is the beginning of an attempt to make the early legislation of Illinois available to students.

The difficulties encountered in its preparation have been of two kinds, one due to limitations of time and access to the volumes indexed. These it may be possible in the future to overcome, making the work more complete than it is at present. The other difficulties cannot be so easily set aside since they are in the records themselves which would lose their authority in any other than their original form, even if the information were not lacking to change them. Frequent discrepancies appear; for example, the first mention of a bill may be its second reading or when it is reported back from a committee; or the same action may be recorded twice in the Journal either on the same day or with an interval of two or three days between; even the passage of a bill is sometimes omitted and may only be inferred from subsequent action in the other House. On the other hand it sometimes appears that measures which failed to pass the body in which they originated were confirmed by the other House showing that the first record was inaccurate.

The index as here presented covers the Journals of House and Senate for the first session of the first General Assembly, October 5 to 13, 1818, the House Journal for the second session, January 19 to March 31, 1819, and the House and Senate Journals of the one session of the second General Assembly, December 4, 1820 to February 15, 1821. No copy of the Senate Journal of the second session of the first General Assembly is known to exist, except the original manuscript which is kept in the office of the Secretary of State, so the index includes no reference to this Journal. Care has been taken however, to note every report of Senate action which occurs in the corresponding House Journal in order to make the record as complete as the circumstances would permit.
The plan followed is that used in the current Journals and includes beside the index proper, a tabulated, historical record of the bills introduced. The bills are entered in the record in roughly chronologic order and have been assigned consecutive numbers to facilitate reference from the index. References are made in this form: Jones, Michael. Relief of, B 313, meaning that the bill which bears the number 313 is a Bill for the relief of Michael Jones. The history of each bill includes the session in which it was introduced, 1-1 meaning the first Assembly, first session, 1-2, the first Assembly, second session, and 2, the second Assembly of which there was only one session; the Journal in which the action appears, H being used for House Journal and S for Senate Journal; and page references in the volume designated, to the original introduction or the reporting of the bill from the House in which it originated, to the first, second and third readings, to any other action taken on the bill and to its passage, when these various items are recorded. The enrolling of bills and approval by the Council of Revision have not been included. Disapproval by the Council, making further action necessary, is always noted in the "Other proceedings".

The same designations for Journal and session are used in the Index as in the Record of Bills, and page references given except in the case of bills when the bill number indicates where the full history may be found in the record. References have not been made to very minute subjects, but are grouped under an obvious heading; for example, in the Governor's message in the House Journal of the Second Assembly, on page 17, the subject of state militia is touched upon. On page 35, this part of the message is referred to a committee and the committee's report is mentioned on page 37. These three references all appear under Militia, Governor's message on. The abbreviation J.P. has been used for justice of the peace in all cases of appointment.

It has occurred a number of times that a name has been spelled in different ways, the context proving that the same person is referred to. Entry is made under the first form given with the other following in parentheses, unless for some reason a later form seems to have greater authority. The majority of instances are names of justices of the peace and they have been entered under the form of name with which their nomination is recorded in the House Journal rather than the form used in the Senate Journal when the nomination was confirmed and the names copied giving added opportunity for error.

The difficulties mentioned together with inexperience in indexing have made this index unsatisfactory as a final piece of work. It is hoped however, that the future will see not only the perfecting of it for the ground already covered, but also completion to a date when the Journals are already adequately indexed.
