Connecting
New York's Collections

Connecting to New York's Collections (c2cnys.org), a partnership of heritage organizations throughout New York State, is presenting a statewide series of preservation programs on “at risk” collections: books and paper, photographic collections, digital materials, and historic objects. Led by experienced professionals in the fields of conservation, disaster response, digitization, and collections management, the workshops benefit libraries, archives, museums, and historic sites.

The Connecting to New York's Collections project is funded by a grant from the Institute of Museum and Library Services and administered by Greater Hudson Heritage Network.

Training is being offered in four ways: Independent or group-viewing Webinars; Circuit Rider Program – bringing experts to your site!; “How-To” Video Tutorials; and Interactive Knowledge Portal website.

Webinar Series 1: Protecting Cultural Collections

June 18, 2013: Disaster Prevention and Preparedness

August 6, 2013: Response and Recovery

Presenter: Kathleen Craughwell-Varda, Museum Consultant

In this two-part interactive workshop, participants will gain the skills needed to complete their own disaster plan, implement an effective disaster response, and understand the critical steps to recovery after an emergency. Pre- and post-disaster collection priorities will be identified, as well as understanding practical decision-making skills. Participants will learn basic salvaging techniques for a variety of materials, including books, documents, photos, and historic objects. For more information and to register, please visit: www.c2cnys.org
