
About the Contributors

ELFREDA A. CHATMAN is Associate Professor, School of Information and Library Science, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Her research interests are in the areas of information diffusion and usage patterns among marginal groups in society. Ms. Chatman has a Ph.D. from the University of California at Berkeley as is her Advanced Certificate in library administration. She received her M.S. in Library Science from Case Western Reserve and her B.S. from Youngstown State University, Ohio.

ANN M. FITZMAURICE is a copywriter and marketing assistant with the Center for Creative Leadership in Greensboro, North Carolina. She is also a free-lance writer and has written several articles for trade magazines. Ms. Fitzmaurice received her B.A. from the University of North Carolina and is currently working on a Master's degree.

THOMAS J. GALVIN is Professor of Information Science and Policy and Director of the interdisciplinary Information Science doctoral program at the State University of New York at Albany. In 1979-80, he was President of ALA and a delegate to the first White House Conference on Library and Information Services in November 1979. From 1985 through 1989 he was ALA's Executive Director. He writes and speaks frequently on information and public policy issues.

ALICE GERTZOG is presently a Library Consultant. She is the author of Casebook in Academic Library Administration (1992); with Caroline Coughlin, Lyle's Administration of the College Library (1992); and has edited Leadership in the Library/Information Profession (1989). She has served as Director of the Meadville (Pennsylvania) Public Library. Her Ph.D. is from Rutgers University where she has also been a member of the faculty. Ms. Gertzog is currently at work, with Edwin Beckerman, on Administration of the Public Library.

PETER HIATT is Principal Investigator of the Career Development and Assessment Center for Librarians: Phase II, a project sponsored by ALA and funded by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation. Dr. Hiatt is also Professor, Graduate School of Library and Information Science, University of Washington, Seattle, Washington, where his specialty is Adult Services. Dr. Hiatt served as Branch Librarian, Elizabeth, New Jersey Public Library from 1957 to 1959. He filled a joint appointment as a consultant with the Indiana State Library and was Assistant and later Associate Professor at the Graduate School of Library and Information Science, Indiana University from 1963 to 1970. From 1970 to 1974 he was Director, Continuing Education Program for Library Personnel, the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education, Boulder, Colorado. He served as Director of the Graduate School of Library and Information Science, University of Washington from 1974 to 1981 and has been a professor there from 1981 to the present. He earned his M.L.S. and Ph.D. in library services at Rutgers University. Dr. Hiatt has served as President of both the Adult Services Division and the Library Education Division, member of council, Committee on Organization, Committee on the Status of Women in Librarianship, and many other ALA committees and task forces. He received the Outstanding Service Award from the Association of Library and Information Science Educators in 1979. He has conducted numerous workshops and continuing education events across the country in his areas of specialization—adult services, community analysis, staff development, and continuing education; subjects on which he has written extensively. Dr. Hiatt was a member of the Editorial Board of College & Research Libraries from 1969 to 1973. He was also the principal investigator for the earlier 1979-83 Career Development and Assessment Center for Librarians funded by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation.

FREDERICK G. KILGOUR is Distinguished Research Professor in the School of Information and Library Science at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and is OCLC's Founder Trustee. His publications include three books and 175 journal articles. He is the recipient of five honorary doctorates, the Legion of Merit (1945), Margaret Mann Citation (ALA, 1974), Melvil Dewey Medal (ALA, 1978), Library and Information Technology Award (LITA, 1979), Academic/Research Librarians of the Year Award (co-recipient ACRL, 1979), Award of Merit (ASIS, 1979), Honorary Life Membership (ALA, 1982), Marcia C. Noyes Award (MLA, 1984), Medical Library Association Fellowship (1984), and Honorary Life Membership (SLA, 1986).

BARBARA B. MORAN is Dean and Professor at the School of Information and Library Science, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She received an A.B. from Mount Holyoke College, an M.Ln. from Emory University, and a Ph.D. from State University of New York at Buffalo. She has written extensively in the areas of academic librarianship and library management.

BROOKE E. SHELDON is Dean of the Graduate School of Library and Information Science, University of Texas at Austin. She is a former president of the American Library Association (1983-84) and chaired the task force which produced the first long range strategic plan for ALA in 1986. She has lectured, consulted, and conducted workshops throughout the United States and abroad on planning, proposal writing, leadership, continuing education, and interpersonal communications. Her book Leaders in Libraries, Styles and Strategies for Success was published by ALA in 1991.

MARTHA MONTAGUE SMITH is the Director of the Kenan Library, Saint Mary's College, Raleigh, North Carolina. Dr. Smith received her Ph.D. in Religion (biblical studies) at Duke University, an M.L.S. at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, an M.Div. from Duke Divinity School, and a B.A. in history also from Duke. She has taught "Technology and Human Values" in the Adult Degree Program of North Carolina Wesleyan College and is currently working on a Ph.D. in Information and Library Science at Chapel Hill. Her dissertation will be on information ethics.

IRVING J. SPITZBERG, JR. received his B.A. from Columbia, B.Phil. from Oxon, and his J.D. from Yale. He is currently President of The Knowledge Company, a credential evaluation firm and was a member of the faculty and an administrator at SUNY/Buffalo, Brown, and Claremont Colleges. He and Virginia Thorndike have just finished Creating Community on College Campuses (forthcoming) for SUNY Press. He has been the General Secretary of the AAUP, the Executive Director of the Council for Liberal Learning of the AAC, and founded, with John Gardner, Frank Pace, and John Macy, the Luce Leadership Program. Mr. Spitzberg has written articles and books about leadership, race relations, public policy toward universities, and the international exchange of knowledge.

This Page Intentionally Left Blank