
About the Contributors

SANDRA RÍOS BALDERRAMA is the Diversity Officer for the American Library Association. She is a librarian and has worked in public libraries for thirteen years. She holds a certificate in human resources development and is interested in how “everyday leadership,” ethics, and integrity impact both personal and organizational transformation. Ms. Balderrama is a storyteller of Mexican Indigenous and Southwestern stories and enjoys working and speaking with youth.

ALMA DAWSON is Assistant Professor in the School of Library and Information Science at Louisiana State University. She also served as Head of the Library and Information Science Library at LSU, Head of the Serials Department at Prairie View A&M University, Prairie View, Texas, and as a teacher-librarian for the Natchitoches Parish Louisiana School System. An active member of the American Library Association, Ms. Dawson has recently chaired the ACRL Racial and Ethnic Committee, serves on the National Research Library Seminar 2 Planning Committee, and is incoming chair of the ACRL Academic Librarian of the Year Committee. In the Association for Library and Information Science Education (ALISE), she has chaired both the Recruitment Committee and the Multicultural, Ethnic, and Humanistic Concerns Interest Group. She co-founded the Minority Recruitment and Professional Concerns Interest Group within the Louisiana Library Association and serves as advisor to the group and director of the mentoring program for library and information science students. She is a member of Beta Phi Mu and Phi Delta Kappa. A graduate of Grambling State University, she received her M.L.S. from the University of Michigan and Ph.D. from Texas Woman’s University.

EDWARD ERAZO, since 1998, has been the Head of Reference at Florida Atlantic University’s S. E. Wimberly Library. Mr. Erazo was Outreach/Education Librarian and Assistant Professor at New Mexico State University

(NMSU) in Las Cruces, New Mexico, from 1993 to 1998, where he earned tenure in 1998. He has also worked at both the El Paso Public Library as Head of Mexican American Services and the University of Texas at El Paso as Reference Librarian. Mr. Erazo earned an M.L.S. from the University of Arizona (1990) in addition to both an M.A. (1988) and a B.A. (1985) in Spanish from the University of Texas at El Paso. An active member of the American Library Association, he has served on numerous committees for LAMA and RUSA. He has most recently served as a member of the Steering Committee for the Congress on Professional Education (CoPE) and ALA Orientation, Training and Leadership Development Committee. Mr. Erazo is a past president of National REFORMA, the National Association to Promote Library Services to the Spanish Speaking as well as past president of the Border Regional Library Association (BRLA). He was named the 1995 BRLA Librarian of the Year. He served as the first Spanish book editor for Library Journal's "En Español" review column in January 1994.

SALVADOR GÜEREÑA is a native of Santa Barbara, California, and is current Director of the California Ethnic and Multicultural Archives in the Davidson Library of the University of California, Santa Barbara. He received the B.A. degree from Westmont College and studied library science at the University of Arizona, where he received the M.L.S. degree, specializing in library services to Latinos. From 1983 until 1991 he headed the Coleccion Tloque Nahuaque (Chicano Studies Library Unit) in that institution, where he also was Assistant Head of the Reference Department. While in that position, Mr. Güereña oversaw the ethnic studies units and the Curriculum Laboratory, in addition to serving on the department's management team. Since 1984, he has served as a Lecturer in the Department of Chicano Studies, an undergraduate course on documentary research methods in Chicano studies. Through his various capacities in the American Library Association (ALA), Mr. Güereña has advanced the cause of library services to cultural minorities and to the underserved. He has served on the governing Council of the ALA and chaired various ALA committees, including the Reference and Adult Services Division's Committee on Library Services to the Spanish-speaking and the American Libraries Advisory Committee. He has published several books and numerous articles in the field of library science, bibliography, and in the archival arena. His latest book is Latino Periodicals: A Selection Guide (McFarland, 1998). Mr. Güereña has been president of REFORMA: The National Association to Promote Library Services to the Spanish Speaking. In 1992 REFORMA honored Mr. Guereña with its "Librarian of the Year" award.

MENGXIONG LIU is an engineering librarian and professor at San Jose State University, California, since 1989. She received her Ph.D. in library and information studies from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Her teaching and research efforts have focused on science and technology information resources and human information-seeking behavior. More recently, she extended her research on information seeking behavior to multicultural populations. Among her recent publications are: "Information Seeking Behavior of Multicultural Students: A Case Study at San Jose State University" (College & Research Libraries, 1997); "CALA and ALA: Partners for GOAL 2000" (in Equal Voices, Many Choices: Ethnic Library Organizations Respond to ALA's GOAL 2000. Chicago: American Library Association, 1997); "Ethnicity and Information Seeking" (Reference Librarian, 1995); and "Library Services for Ethnolinguistic Students" (Journal of Educational Media and Library Sciences, 1995). In addition to teaching and research, Ms. Liu has been actively involved in the American Library Association (ALA) and ethnic librarians associations. She is currently a member of ALA's Spectrum Steering Committee and was the former president of the Chinese American Librarians Association (CALA). She also works in various capacities with the Asian Pacific American Librarians Association (APALA).

KATHLEEN DE LA PEÑA MCCOOK is a librarian and is also a professor at the School of Library and Information Science at the University of South Florida since 1993. She was previously Professor and Dean at Louisiana State University as well as a member of the faculty of the Graduate School of Library and Information Science at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Among her recent publications are: Library Services to Youth of Hispanic Heritage (Jefferson, NC: McFarland, 2000), Women of Color in Librarianship: An Oral History (Chicago: American Library Association, 1998), and Global Reach, Local Touch (Chicago: ALA Editions, 1998). Ms. McCook is a contributing editor for American Libraries and is currently active in the Rural Social Services Partnership, the South County Coalition of Human Services, the Good Community Collaborative, and the University of South Florida Community Initiative. She was honored with the ALA Equality Award and the Elizabeth Futas Catalyst for Change Award.

LOTSEE PATTERSON, since 1991, has been a professor at the University of Oklahoma, School of Library and Information Studies. She attended the Oklahoma College for Women where she received a B.S. in 1959, and the University of Oklahoma where she received an M.L.S. in 1969 and a Ph.D. in Educational Technology in 1979. She has worked as a teacher/librarian at the Riverside Indian School; Assistant Professor at the University of New Mexico, College of Education; Assistant, then Associate Professor at Texas Woman's University, School of Library and Information Studies; Program Director of TRAILS (Training and Assistance for Indian Library Services) at the University of Oklahoma from 1985 to 1987; Associate Professor at Northeastern State University in Tahlequah, Oklahoma; and Director of Library Media Services for the Oklahoma City Public Schools from 1989 to 1991. She has been a consultant for the University of New Mexico Native American Studies, National Archives and Records Administration Field Advisory Committee, and the National Museum of the American Indian in the Smithsonian Institution and the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science. Ms. Patterson's ALA service has included the OLOS Committee on Library Services to American Indians, the Committee on Accreditation, and the President's Leadership Strategies Task Force. Ms. Patterson has been honored with the Award of Appreciation from the National Congress of American Indians, the Equality Award from ALA, and the Leadership Award from the American Indian Library Association. She also won the Silver Award from the National Commission on Libraries and Information Science in 1996, and the Distinguished Service Award from the Oklahoma Library Association in 1997. She has been principal investigator on many grants including the U.S. Department of Education, HEA Title II-B "Summer Institute" programs for tribal librarians in 1995, 1996, and 1997. Her publications include Pathways to Excellence: A Report on Improving Library and Information Services for Native American Peoples (NCLIS, 1992) and "Trially Controlled Community College Libraries: A Paradigm for Survival," in College & Research Libraries (July 1996). She was editor of the American Indian Libraries Newsletter from 1993 to 1996.

ALICE ROBBIN is currently associate professor at the School of Library and Information Science at Indiana University at Bloomington. Her research focuses on the political controversy surrounding the reclassification of racial and ethnic data, the symbolic aspects of classification systems, the role of the decennial census in creating identity, the history of minority statistics in the federal statistical system, and administrative decision making. Recent articles have appeared in the Journal of the American Society for Information Science, Administration & Society, and Journal of Government Information.

KENNETH A. YAMASHITA is Library Division Manager for Central Library and Technical Services at the Stockton-San Joaquin County (CA) Public Library. He earned a B.A. in English Literature at Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey, studied for the M.A. in Fine Arts History at Indiana University, received the M.L.S. from Rutgers University and the D.A. in Library Administration from Simmons College, Boston. He has held positions at the Montclair (NJ) Free Public Library, the Decatur (IL) Public Library, The Chicago Public Library, with CLSI, at the Massachusetts Board of Library Commissioners prior to going to Stockton in 1981 to be a Supervising Librarian. Mr. Yamashita's ALA activities include chairing the OLOS Advisory Committee (1987-90); serving on Council (1995-98; 1999-02); appointments to the Nominating Committee and the Council Committee on Minority Concerns and Cultural Diversity (1985-87; 1999-01) and several PLA committees. He chaired the OLOS director search committee in 1986 and 1987. He is a member of the Spectrum Initiative Steering Committee and the CCMCCD Diversity Council. Mr. Yamashita was elected president of the Asian/Pacific American Librarians Association in 1996. In the California Library Association he has been elected to its Council/Assembly (1987-93) and has served on several committees of the California State Library. In 1972 he was inducted into Beta Phi Mu. He has contributed to several books on librarianship and has been the editor of/advisor to publications of Gale Research, Highsmith, and the California State Library. He is currently involved in the California Civil Liberties Public Education Program at his library which teaches the community about the Japanese American internment.