INTRODUCTION

The Institute of Government and Public Affairs, a unit of the University of Illinois, renders advisory, consulting, and research services to the governments of Illinois and their elected and appointed officials. The research resources of the Institute include a number of basic political science reference materials, Illinois government reference materials and basic documents, and a large collection of "fugitive" pamphlet materials from a variety of sources: university institutes and bureaus, state agencies, special interest groups, and citizen groups. The Institute is not a library and has not collected books and other materials which are readily available at the University of Illinois library. Many of the most useful research materials are in the collection of pamphlets and newsclippings. The pamphlet collection is arranged according to subject matter and cross referenced in vertical files which also contain the extensive and current newsclipping collections under the same subject headings. The newsclippings are primarily from the Chicago Daily News, the Chicago Sun-Times, the Chicago Tribune, and the New York Times.

Major areas of strength in the vertical file materials are indicated by three asterisks, areas of secondary importance by two, and incidental materials by one asterisk.
